Having spoken of progression, its time to turn back to see the milestones crossed. Two scores and more and the scoreboard is highlighted by victories. The infrastructural grandeur, the intellectual pool, the sea of eager students and many more indicate these milestones. Turning all the miles into smiles, the University has indeed etched a memorable record in its history. Christite 2009 highlighted the theme Academic Social Responsibility- Practices and Possibilities.” Today many of these practices have become the Modus Operandi of the University, while those stated possibilities have become practices. Patting our backs for having covered those milestones, we invite you to unfold this tremendous growth in the following pages.

Chancellor's Message

Milestones - this is the theme for the annual magazine of Christ University. This is not a fancy term that has been ascribed to a set of colourful pages of activities and events each deanery or centre has conducted. But, a yardstick we have used to measure our progress as an academic institution par excellence. This is an evocative metaphor for the unchanging and deep rooted pillars we look back to for guidance and reassurance, for strength and support in our never ending journey towards academic excellence and holistic development of individuals.

Milestones are indicators of the past, the present and the future. They remind us of the miles we have travelled, show us where we are and also point us to the future, the miles we have to continue to travel in our journey towards "excellence and service". As an academic institution ever since our inception in 1969 till 2012 we have surpassed innumerable milestones, each of them more glorious than before. They have been both path breaking and path making and now a few years short of our 50th anniversary we have scaled heights we have constantly dreamt of and have worked hard to achieve.

Even as we celebrate each of these victories, we are aware that these are not sinecures and we cannot rest content. We have to constantly reflect about the paths we have travelled, the milestones we have crossed, the milestones we are at and the milestones we are to cross, i.e., we have to reflect on where we began, where we are and where we are going and where we ought to go. In that sense, each milestone we have reached becomes a touchstone to map the progress of this institution of knowledge production, assimilation and dissemination. Milestones will motivate us magnificently.

Keeping with this spirit of retrospection and progress, living in modern society but being rooted in tradition travelling towards greater heights let's be aware of the 'milestones' we have passed, are at and are to cross. To be a visionary of the future, it is necessary to have a clear vision of the past and the present. Let the milestones be strong anchors in our journey forward.

Dr (Fr) Thomas Aykara
Rector, Dharmaram
Chancellor, Christ University

Vice Chancellor's Message

Christ University has come a long way, in progress, in transitions, surpassing a number of milestones along the way; each milestone we passed was hard won and cherished. They were moments to celebrate, and touchstones for better achievements. Over the years Christ University has had many such milestones to celebrate. Becoming autonomous in 2005 achieving the much sought after status of a deemed to be University in 2008, establishing a research culture in the process of becoming a “research university” with research programmes and research projects are some of the most recent milestones we have achieved. Each of these achievements was made possible with the help of our students, faculty and the dynamic interactions that open up new vistas in every field, be it academics or extracurricular activities. The University attempts to establish its research culture on solid grounds with new programmes, encouraging both teachers and students. Another new endeavour, the Student Council, was restructured this year to smoothen the interactions between students, faculty and the management; a dance extravaganza was held and special cultural stalls by the various deaneries were put up for the first time in the University as part of the successful two year old Blossoms event, strengthening the event and making it more sought than ever.

We as a University, to put it in Mike Huckabee's terms have risen above expectations, and we have seized each of the opportunities that have come our way. We have achieved a number of milestones and we have miles to go guided by the milestones we have already crossed. But as we know, we cannot rest on old laurels, momentous though they might be. We have to look forward to better ones, never at any point forgetting what has been achieved. This issue of the annual magazine will refresh our memories about the milestones we have achieved every year and what makes them possible. And it is also a quick reminder that:

that which we are, we are;
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
... strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.
(Alfred Tennyson, “Ulysses”)

Dr (Fr) Thomas C Mathew
Vice Chancellor, Christ University

From the Registrar's Desk....

Our students are our strength. With this ever resounding belief we at Christ University have traversed many years, constantly evolving to better our contribution towards building a finer world through education. We have passed through the gates of transition and progressed to taste success with our efforts and have touched several milestones so far in this journey from affiliated college to an autonomous institution to a deemed to be university. Now again, as always, we look forward to a brighter future than merely being content to rest on our laurels. We strive to establish a model university in India to be accredited internationally.

The many milestones we have passed by and look ahead to in future with the help of our conviction in our motto "Excellence and Service", have led us on our path to wisdom, with knowledge as our guiding beam. Each and every stone we have stepped on, each effort and every success on this path, reminds us of the road ahead towards endless possibilities. We have been striding ahead, taking along every individual on this campus, in our endeavour of inculcating a sense of discipline and a spirit of enquiry; encouraging innovation in thought and determination in action; imbibing the strength of our rich culture and values and relentlessly keeping alive the light of curiosity.

Every student, every member of the faculty and every person who steps into the portals of this grand temple of learning comes with a heart full of dreams, mind full of aspirations, soul full of potential and eyes brimming with hope. And each of them strives here to reap that potential, to realize that dream, to fulfil that aspiration and to be propelled by that hope in order to achieve great milestones, which in turn reaches every family, every community and thereby the nation and the world. We have over ten thousand students, more than five hundred members of the teaching faculty and over three hundred and fifty non-teaching staff members, forming a part of the hive of activities at this great institution throughout the realm of the clock. Several books that have been published; many research papers published in reputed national and international journals; a number of papers presented at national and international seminars/ conferences/ symposia/workshops; and the innumerable prizes and awards won by our students and faculty members vouch for their incessant striving towards excellence.

Riding on such strength we have met many milestones and look forward to a lot more at the horizon and beyond, each of which forms a special moment in our journey, to be cherished and to be shared. The pages ahead show one such attempt at capturing those moments of special significance from all corners of our life on this wonderful campus.

All Christites have tremendously contributed to win us laurels. And I congratulate and wish all the best to our outgoing Christites.

Office of Examinations

The Office of Examinations, under the leadership of the Controller of Examinations, Prof. Baby Mathew, has overseen significant initiatives taken by Christ University in the academic year 2011-12 towards further strengthening the efficacy of our system of examinations. An important change was the introduction of an improved software for the generation of End Semester question papers. The reasons for the adoption of this modified system, as explained by the Controller of Examinations, are the avoidance of predictable question papers by preventing the repetition of questions over successive years, the creation of a paper pattern that recognizes and is responsive to the differing intellectual capabilities of students, and encouraging the inclusion of thought-provoking questions that discourage learning answers by rote. Another change was the use of alternative innovative pedagogy to conduct and evaluate the Continuous Internal Assessment (CIA) modules, such as service learning, research that possesses social utility, and interdisciplinary approaches to subject learning. The Office of Examinations also welcomes the appointment of Prof. Johny Joseph as the Associate Controller of Examinations.
